Best Practice - I

Vachana Kammata – An inspiration for development of moral values

Objectives of the practice:

- To inculcate the moral values and ethics practiced by XII century saints and social reformers.
- To enlighten students community for inculcation of ethical and moral values.
- To encourage students community to follow the values of role models of ancient period.
- To encourage students community about the workaholic nature.

The Context:

We are proud and egoistic to state that, our country is rich in heritage, culture and natural resources. Referring to the analysis report of various findings from different organizations, etc., values are declining and students mindset are getting diversified due to the advancement of mobile technology. Today's students are tomorrow's greater strength for our country. To shape them morally, ethically, socially responsible citizen of our country, college has adopted a course on Vachana Kammata – which reflects on moral and ethical values practiced and propagated by Lord Basaveshwara and his contemporary saranas to the society at large during their era, which is introduced by our esteemed management to help student community to inculcate these universal values.

The Practice:

Students who enrolled for this course need to study, First Year – Anubhava – Teaches on human values and civilization Second Year- Anubhuthi – Highlights on gender equity. Third Year - Ananda – Inspires role model of spiritual gurus. This particular value added course is very prominent course in the entire state of Karnataka introduced by our esteemed Management SJM Vidya Peetha, Chitradurga. This is a unique course started in the year 1998 from Middle School to PG level. Study materials are provided to students at free of cost. The

Evidence of Success:

Most of the students get enrolled for this course. This particular content of the course helped majority of the students community in inculcating various universal values. Most of them before leaving the institution after the graduation go with the commitment and dedication to be role model in every aspect of their efforts during their career span. College has good track of record about the successful implementation of the course and its impact. It is also witnessed in change in behavioural attitude during their course tenure. During the year, more than 300 students have taken part in this value based course and successfully completed the course.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

Initially, students mindset was lean to adopt this course, but consistence guidance and motivations of senior staff members, gradually students have taken interest in adopting this course. Necessary financial assistance is taken care by college to implement this course. We have not come across any financial constraint or any problem.

Best Practice - II

Title of the Practice : SAVE LIFE – DONATE BLOOD

Objective :

- To imbibe the social concern among students.
- To save any individual who is in dire need of blood.
- To associate with YRC in social activities.
- To educate every student about the health consciousness.

The Context:

The overall percentage of students enrolled are from rural background and many of them are children of farmers. To inculcate the social concern among the students, college has NSS and YRC. Hubballi-Dharwad is surrounded with good number of hospitals but based on the survey made by NSS unit, many of the patients found very difficult in getting required group of blood from the blood bank units. This has inspired the convenors of NSS and YRC become the part of social contribution in saving the lives of many patients who are relentlessly seeking the required blood group. Our college has collaborated with Rastroththana Blood Bank, Hubballi and Karnataka Cancer Therapy & Research Institute, Hubballi for the purpose.

The Practice:

With the support of NSS, YRC, college regularly conducts medical check up camp in association with Red Cross Unit. Students are enlightened about the health consciousness and also educated them the prominence of donating the blood to the needy patients. Most of the NSS volunteers and other students are motivated themselves to actively participate and contribute blood to the needy. In this regard, college regularly invites Rastroththana Blood Bank, Hubballi and Karnataka Cancer Therapy & Research Institute, Hubballi for conducting Blood grouping and blood donation camp. Further, in the case of emergency requisition, the helpline number of the convenor of NSS is provided to neighbouring hospitals so as to facilitate required blood group to the needy.

The Evidence of Success:

The college staff both teaching and non teaching have donated their blood and have stood as the role models for the students. This mass inspired more than 30 NSS volunteers to donate their blood unit belonging to different group. During the year 2019-20, 58 units and 28 units of blood of different groups is collected by Rashthrohana Blood Bank Unit, Hubballi and Karnataka Cancer Therapy Research Centre, Hubballi respectively.

During the year 2021-22 ,27 students donated their Blood out of which 20 students donated Blood to Karnataka Cancer Therapy Research centre , Hubballi and 7 students donated Blood to District Civil hospital Dharwad. The college has received a certificate of appreciation from Karnataka Cancer Therapy Research centre , Hubballi.

Problems encountered:

Some of our students inspite of motivation, enlightenment, advices carry fear and wrong notions in donating blood. Many students have lack of knowledge, misconceptions, about the significance and use of blood donations. Student who come from various cultural and social background are fearful about the painthat the needles may cause. Some have blood phobia who cannot stand the sight of the blood donation camp. Some have the fear of fainting. However, college has collected good number of blood unit atleast to the extent of 20% of the total students.
